The screenshot shows the "Help Desk" page of the EEECA website. It features a sidebar with links for Submit a Question, FAQ, Glossary, Your feedback, and FP7 Country specialists. The main content area discusses the Help Desk's role in assisting with FP7 participation and provides information on how to submit questions. It also mentions services offered through the Help Desk.

ICT R&D priorities of the Eastern Europe and the Central Asia countries, identified for the period 2010-2015

Research capabilities in Eastern Europe and the Central Asia (EECA) countries have been severely affected by rapid political change, internal conflict and the gradual transformation from state-run to market economies. This is manifested by the huge reduction in national Science and Technology (S&T) expenditure and the brain drain of leading scientists from these countries during the 1990s. Sin...

Glossary

Acceding country:

This is a candidate country that has met the Copenhagen criteria and has completed negotiations for joining the European Union.

Access rights:

Access rights, a basic term relating to Intellectual Property Rights (IPR), meaning those rights (e.g. licences or user rights) to use knowledge or pre-existing know-how given by the owners of the knowledge or pre-existing know-how to others.

For more information on IPR see <http://cordis.europa.eu/ipr-helpdesk/en/home.html>

Acknowledgement of receipt:

Applicants are informed electronically after the deadline that a proposal has been successfully submitted (but not that it is necessarily eligible). Contact the help desk urgently if you do not receive such an acknowledgement.

Agenda:

This term literally means "things to be done". It normally refers to the list of items for discussion at a meeting, but politicians also use it as a jargon term meaning "things we want to achieve". For example, the EU's

ICT PROPOSERS' DAY 2011
BUDAPEST
19-20 May

ICT Proposers' Day 2011

Your networking opportunity for European ICT research & development

The ICT Proposers' Day 2011 to take place in Budapest, 19–20 May is dedicated to networking and promoting research & development in the field of Information and Communication Technologies. If you would like to know more:

- about the funding opportunities offered by the European Union in the field of ICT research & development;
- about participating in Calls 8 and 9 of the FP7 ICT Work Programme offering more than one billion euros of EU funding and you are looking for the right partners to form project consortia, your place is at the ICT Proposers' Day 2011.

With whom can you meet at ICT Proposers' Day?

The event will provide academia and business sectors, SMEs and government actors from all over Europe a platform for building partnerships and exchange ideas for participating in calls for proposals. About 2500 participants are expected to attend.

In addition, over 100 Commission officials will be present to provide information on the content of the calls for proposals and advice you on how to submit your proposal.

About the event

- Under the auspices of the Hungarian Presidency to the European Union the event will take place in Budapest.
- Following the experience of the large success of the ICT Proposers' Day

Registration
The event is free of charge. Registration for the event will open in January 2011.
